1. What are cookies?

Cookies are small pieces of text stored on your computer when you visit almost any website. Companies use them to:

- Verify your identity, to ensure your security and privacy;
- Determine the browser and settings you are using to provide optimised content;
- Understand the way you navigate through websites, so firms can make improvements; and
- Help site owners and third-party advertisers tailor content to your preferences.

2. Our Policy

We respect your privacy and are committed to providing you with the information and tools you need to manage your cookies.

Like most other websites, Vantage Global Prime LLP's (the "Firm","Vantage" or "Vantage Markets") website uses cookies. No cookies used by the Firm store personally identifiable data, such as:

- Names;
- Phone numbers;
- Email addresses;
- Mailing addresses;
- Bank account numbers; or
- Credit card information

This site provides three different levels of cookies, and this policy explains how cookies are used on the Firm's website, what cookies may be set when you visit the Firm's website and how to manage and delete them.

This policy applies to the Firm's website and any mobile applications. Throughout this policy, any references to our website cover any website or mobile application maintained by the Firm. This policy forms part of our website security and privacy provisions.

By accessing our website, you agree that this policy will apply whenever you access our website on any device.

3. The Firm's use of cookies

The Firm may collect information automatically when you visit the website, using cookies or local storage in the case of mobile. This allows us to identify your computer and find out details about your last visit. Cookies help us:

- Recognise you as a unique when you return to our website, allowing the Firm to tailor your online experience;
- Measure and understand how visitors use our site, driving improvement.

We might store information entered in tools, such as calculators or demonstrations on our website. This information may need to be temporarily stored to deliver these types of services efficiently and is not used for any other means. If you choose not to allow cookies, the quality of your browsing experience may be reduced.
Information collected by cookies does not personally identify you; but it does identify your computer and your connection to the internet. We only collect general information about your computer settings, your connection to the Internet e.g., operating system and platform, IP address, browsing patterns and interactions with our sites.

4. Types of cookies

This site provides three different levels of cookies:

- Essential: This is the minimum requirement to ensure that our website is secure, performs as expected, and displays information in the correct format. Without these cookies, we are unable to provide this website to you;

- Moderate: This level includes essential cookies, plus those used for tracking the performance of the website and counting in-bound traffic from marketing campaigns. They enable the Firm to improve segmentation and personalise your user journey.

- Optimal: This level includes essential and moderate cookies, plus those used for analysing the way you use our website. They enable us to serve you relevant product ads on social media and advertising networks.

Essential Cookies

Essential cookies are necessary for our site to function and allow you to access secure areas. They are the minimum required to ensure that our website is secure, performs as expected, and displays information in the correct format. These are primarily session cookies and are deleted when you leave the site.

These cookies cannot be turned off individually, but you can change your browser setting to refuse all cookies if you do not wish to accept them. However, without these cookies, services like accessing your online account cannot be provided. People who reject these cookies cannot use these services.

Below is a list of cookies we consider to be "Essential".
